COMMENCEMENT 1949 promises to be a gay occasion. A number of class reunions are planned and Alumnae Day, Saturday, May 28, will be filled to the brim with activities.

DR. FRANCIS P. GAINES, President of Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Va., will deliver the Baccalaureate Sermon, Sunday, May 29, at eleven o'clock, in Aycock Auditorium. Dr. Gaines, a noted educator and orator, will be heard by seniors, faculty, families and friends of Woman's College.

DR. JACKSON'S DECISION to remain as Woman's College Chancellor for another year has been received with real joy and deep gratitude. We announced in the February Alumnae News that a dinner honoring Dr.

Jackson had been planned for May 17. Plans for the occasion were cancelled when the University Board of Trustees requested him to stay on, but the committee from the faculty and alumnae will plan a similar affair probably next fall.

THE VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE CONFERENCE, the project of the sophomore class, assisted by the Alumnae Association, was a real success and, we hope, the beginning of an annual event. We are truly grateful to the alumnae and others who contributed their time and efforts toward making the day successful.

ALL OF YOUR FRIENDS at Woman's College are expecting you for Commencement this year. Don't disappoint us.

ALUMNAE RETURNING for Commencement will be housed without charge, of course, in Gray and Cotten Halls. Come Friday night and stay through Monday if possible. We'll be looking for you.

OPEN HOUSE: As the Alumnae News goes to press plans are being made by the alumnae social committee to have open house for the seniors following their last class meeting May 5, in the Alumnae House. This will be the social occasion welcoming the class of 1949 into the Association.

Dr. Graham Accepts Appointment to United States Senate

News of Dr. Frank Porter Graham's appointment to the United States Senate and his subsequent resignation as President of the Consolidated University of North Carolina brought mixed emotions to Alumnae of the Woman's College — regret in the loss of our great University leader and pride in having the State of North Carolina represented by her outstanding liberal, intellectual and humanitarian.

Dr. Graham's appointment to fill the Senatorial vacancy brought about by the untimely death of Senator J. M. Broughton, was announced by Governor W. Kerr Scott at the O. Max Gardner Award Dinner in Chapel Hill, March 22, 1949. In attendance at the dinner were the members of the University Board of Trustees and members of the faculties of State College, Woman's College and Carolina. Climaxing the event which honored Miss Louise Alexander as the outstanding teacher at the three units of the University, the announcement of Dr. Graham's appointment made the occasion one of genuine triumph for education.

Public recognition is not always accompanied by humility, but Dr. Graham's selfless life as teacher, administrator, peacemaker, and arbiter has been marked by deep faith in human beings and consummate humility. He has been consistent in his efforts to help make the world a better place—one in which all freedoms are guaranteed to all people. Dr. Graham goes to Washington with an understanding and knowledge of national and world affairs, for already he has been given important posts by President Roosevelt and President Truman. He was successively vice-chairman of the N. R. A. Consumer's Board, chairman of the National Advisory Council to the Cabinet Committee on Economic Security, member of the President's Committee on Education, vice-chairman of the National Defense Mediation Board, member of the War Labor Board, United States representative on the "Good Offices" Committee of the United Nations to facilitate the settlement of the Indonesian problem, and president of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies.

No better picture of Frank Graham, the man, has come from the press than the following editorial by Jonathan Daniels, editor, which was published in the Raleigh News and Observer March 23, 1949.

"OUR HEARTS SWELL WITH GLADNESS"

Senator Graham.

The name and the title stand splendidly together in North Carolina.

Governor Scott could have chosen no citizen who better represented at one and the same time the Go Forward spirit and the continuity of a high Carolina tradition. Certainly, he could have chosen no man better equipped for the highest democratic dealing with the tremendous problems of our times in this State, this nation, and this world.

The name Graham is almost a substantive noun for service in North Carolina. It was a Graham who recalled in his old age the high faith in freedom which he and others put into the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence. He was merely the first of the Grahams devoted to the service of a free people. There is a contemporary sound in a sentence from the biography of William Alexander Graham, who a century ago was Senator, Governor, and Secretary of the Navy. In the Senate "his career was marked by earnest and intelligent advocacy of internal improvements and public education." It is a family in which statesmanship and the schoolhouse have been combined. Frank Graham's own father, Alexander Graham, came home from service as a Confederate soldier to devote a long life to teaching generations of North Carolinians. Frank Graham's predecessor and cousin at Chapel Hill, Edward Kidder Graham, founded the faith which Frank Graham has fulfilled that a State University is not merely a college for students but an institution inclusive of the whole life of a State.

Certainly, no living North Carolinian can question Governor Scott's judgment in finding in Frank Graham a true Go Forward comrade in his program for the welfare of the people of this day. Indeed, in the generation of living North Carolinians he has been the clearest living symbol of full faith in the powers of the people and the most vital advocate of full and equal opportunity for them all—and everyone—"to bureeon out all that there is within him." That has not been an easy faith. During recent legislative weeks there were practical men who wondered why Frank Graham was unwilling to fight for the University alone but gave his zeal also to appropriations for health and the public schools, roads and the public welfare. His willingness to fight for every cause which seemed to him good has brought him enemies and smears—but fortunately smears which fell of their own weight against the stone wall of North Carolina's faith in him and affection for him. He is and always has been a man best loved by those who know him best.

As important as the Carolina and Christian tradition and faith upon which he stands is the equipment for great national service which he possesses. Hardly any North Carolinian of this generation has been called upon for so much selfless service by his country. Yet few North Carolinians have been able to keep so direct and strong their lines of service to so many people at home. Frank Graham has been able to work in Indonesia and yet remember the problems of a boy or a teacher, a girl or a cause in small towns and cities in North Carolina. He is equally at home at the country gathering and the international conference table. He has won the enmity of commissars in the world debate without ever losing the common touch with scholars and children, poor people and big people at home. No man North Carolina could send to the Senate today would carry to it more knowledge of the problems which will face it and upon which depend the hope and security of his own people than this small, simple, strong man from Chapel Hill.

He was drafted for the Senate in disregard of all the political contenders by Governor Scott at a fortunate time. Though the work of building a great University system will never be ended, Frank Graham has brought the process of consolidation to a point where its continuing success is assured. He has not only led in the building of a great technical institution at Raleigh, a splendid Woman's College at Greensboro and a liberal University at Chapel Hill, but he has also added to the faith of the people in that institution, which is more essential to it even than appropriations. The task has reached the point where his assignment to a greater task comes with the naturalness of greatness in the service of a people.

The choice is excellent. It may be even more important in North Carolina that the choice also proves the statesmanship of Governor Scott. There had been some impatience with his delay in appointing a worthy successor to Senator J. Melville Broughton. Much of that impatience represented not merely the competitive eagerness of politicians, but a fear by the people that the Governor was playing politics among them. The appointment of Graham will dispel the people's fear. And time will reveal the steadfastness with which the Governor sought the acceptance of the one man whom he believed best qualified in mind and spirit to represent the people of North Carolina in the solution of the problems of the world.

By his choice Governor Scott lifts the spirit and the faith of North Carolina people in their destiny to go forward toward the fulfillment of the best that is within them. By his choice he gives the nation a Senator who will be recognized for his weight, his wisdom, and his worth from the moment of his appointment. Senator Graham will be able to do much out of great understanding for the people of North Carolina and the South. He will do most for them and for men everywhere, however, as a devout and devoted advocate of freedom and peace. Governor Scott has not merely well served North Carolina. He has given in the decisive council of the free world today, a vote which will never be cast except for the decency, the productivity, the happiness, and the peace of mankind.

By no means the least of those assets which the departure of Dr. Graham takes from North Carolina to Washington is Mrs. Graham herself. Her charm, friendliness, intelligence, and loyalty to the University and to the State have complemented Dr. Graham's immeasurable contribution to us.

It is the hope of the Alumnae of the Woman's College that in fostering the principles of freedom, faith in humanity, and service to the state and nation, our college will always be a credit to Dr. Graham and his devotion to these ideals.

A Letter from Chancellor Jackson

Dear Alumnae:

I had expected that this would be a good-bye message. All my plans had been made to retire July 1. On March 22 President Graham was appointed to the United States Senate. Immediately I was approached by some of the trustees and asked if I would agree to remain here another year. I said that I did not want to do so. Upon further conversation I said that I would not even consider the question unless it was cleared with the committees—trustee, alumnae, and faculty—that were considering recommendations for my successor. Not knowing what these committees had done or were doing, it might be that I would unwittingly complicate their problem. These committees were consulted and I was told that all three of them unanimously recommended that I be asked to remain one more year. The Executive Committee then requested it, and I thought it my duty to comply. So, the farewell message is briefly postponed.

The faculty and students have been generous beyond belief in pledging help to me for next year. All of us will do our best to insure a good year. We want and need the continued help of the alumnae.

One of the reasons that weighed heavily with me in making a decision was the opportunity to have a further part in the great building program now in progress. You will recall that during the past year we built a new laundry, a beautiful soda shop, and partially completed the renovation of the dining halls. That renovation job will be completed this summer. A magnificent million-dollar library is in course of rapid construction. Contract has been let and ground broken already for a new dormitory that will be a duplicate of Weil and Winfield, though with the wings of the new building paralleling the center part of the building instead of at right angles as in Weil and Winfield. This building is facing the driveway in front of Coit Hall and north of Kirkland. Plans are being completed for a million-dollar home economics building. We hope to open bids for that building within sixty or ninety days.

The last General Assembly gave us in addition to all this, adequate appropriations for a student union building, a new infirmary, a new gymnasium, the enlargement of the science building, a nursery school, conversion of the present library to a classroom building, renovation of Curry, and campus improvements in roads, etc., etc. Permanent improvements for the last biennium and the present total considerably more than seven million dollars. That is a goodly sum for us and will provide well for our campus needs for a long time. We propose to push construction on all these plans just as rapidly as possible. This will be a major part of my task for next year.

We are also in the midst of working out our salary schedule for next year, making plans for Summer School and our Burnsville Project, our Art School at Beaufort, our work at Penland, and planning for the Arts Forum, the Harriet Elliott Social Science Forum, Music Contest, furthering the work for the Home Economics Foundation, Chapel Fund, and the many other activities that make up the enlarged program of the College.

I bespeak your continued interest and assistance—especially for one more year!

A Letter from Our President

Dear Alumnae:

Days as Alumnae President roll by as swiftly as college days!

Some things I had hoped to see accomplished in my tenure of office are still on the unfinished list, but much has been done, thanks to your interest and help—and that of our indefatigable executive secretary, Betty Brown Jester, and her assistant, Evon Dean.

I believe that you will agree that the most thrilling single report is that 121 meetings of alumnae have been held since October 1, from Boston to St. Petersburg, and west to Chicago. With such interest and cooperation, I am sure the part of alumnae of Woman's College in the future growth and development of the college is assured.

Whatever the alumnae have done—in the field, working with the college students, or in the office, we have had the encouragement and backing of Dr. Jackson. He has made us all feel strongly that no matter where we are or what we are doing, we will always be important to our college.

I urge you to continue to support the incoming president, and thank you again for the fine way you have helped me.

Sincerely,

Alumnae President

Miss Alexander Receives First O. Max Gardner Award

LOUISE BREVARD ALEXANDER

Miss Louise Brevard Alexander, professor of political science at Woman's College for fourteen years, was given the first Oliver Max Gardner Award at a dinner honoring her March 22, 1949, in Lenoir Hall at Chapel Hill. As the will of Oliver Max Gardner reads, "To that member of the faculty of the Consolidated University of North Carolina who, during the current scholastic year, has made the greatest contribution to the welfare of the human race," the award was made to "Miss Alex" for her distinguished teaching.

The Woman's College is proud to share this high honor with "Miss Alex" and we are grateful to her for her praiseworthy representation of the teaching profession.

The award was a check for the income of $25,000 which was presented to Miss Alexander by Mr. J. Spencer Love, chairman of the committee on the Board of Trustees, who made the selection.

Present at the dinner were the faculties of the three units of the Greater University and members of the Board of Trustees. Governor Kerr Scott presided.

From the brochure which was presented to each guest at the dinner we quote:

"'Go and Teach,' the mandate of the Master-Teacher, is somewhat in need of re-emphasis today, particularly in the realm of Higher Education. Research, publication and public lecturing are so requisite to the life and work of a real university that at times they tend to overshadow the equally important work of the classroom.

"The laboratory, the typewriter, and the rostrum have become the royal roads to scholarly pre-eminence and national recognition; but there are still many noble souls who achieve academic canonization the hard way: Teaching.

"A university must promote the constant search and research for new truths; it must assure the publication and dissemination of this new knowledge; but it must never de-emphasize its responsibility to teach.

"Great teachers and great scientists are so much in demand nowadays that they are apt to be lured away from their first love: classroom teaching, and the result is an irreparable loss to the students.

"Great teachers are needed today as never before. Education has been indicted for failing to save the world from two global wars within a period of twenty-five years. Perhaps there is some justice in the indictment; yet, many people still look to Education as the great hope for avoiding a third world war.

"The moral anemia of the world today may be attributed to the war, to wide-spread religious indifference, to the partial disintegration of the family and home life; but, whatever the causes, our universities and colleges must tackle the job of trying to cure it, before it ultimately destroys us.

"Faith and hope in the hearts and minds of our youth are the best antitoxins to immunize against this pernicious epidemic. This job must be done by our university and college teachers.

"Young people coming to college, cutting away from the family ties and the home-church, need piloting by great teachers. Sound instruction alone in history, mathematics, chemistry, et cetera, is not enough. The task demands more than zealous exactitude in the specific subject matter. The great teacher helps the student find himself or herself.

"Some young college students are apt to revel in sophomoric sophistication. Doubt, skepticism, iconoclasm, and cynicism may seem ultra-smart to immature minds. The old creeds they learned at home often lose their power. Idolatrous ideologies are working to proselyte the idealism of youth. These ideologies may confuse and lure the young man or young woman who is seeking recognition by the world about them. They chase some will-o-the-wisp to attract attention to themselves, to make news — mistaking notoriety for appreciation.

"Good teachers are a godsend to young people at this topsy-turvy stage in their development. Indifferent, unsympathetic instructors can intensify the frustration of youth. Understanding, inspiring teachers can help these energetic and dynamic young people develop into intelligent, happy, useful citizens. The job is hard. It requires teachers with knowledge, wisdom, prudence, patience, understanding, unselfishness. That is the kind of teacher we must have if our civilization is to survive.

"And that is the kind of teacher the Trustees have selected in making the first Oliver Max Gardner Award. A great teacher is being honored because of her teaching — Louise Brevard Alexander, Teacher, has been adjudged, by the Trustees, to be 'that member of the faculty of the Consolidated University of North Carolina who in the past academic year has made the greatest contribution to the human race.'

"Miss Alex,' as she is known to everyone who has come under her inspiring influence, is a 'born teacher'. She has devoted her life to teaching and she has devoted her teaching to life. Her influence extends beyond the classroom. She lives in the lives of her students and former students. And, because she teaches government and political science with the idea of helping her students develop into citizens, she lives in the everyday life of North Carolina, the South, and the Nation.

"Sharing the birthday of Franklin Delano Roosevelt — January 30 — Miss Alexander shares, too, his great love of people, and his devotion to the people's well-being.

"Fourteen years ago, again on January 30, Miss Alexander came to Woman's College. She has been a masterful teacher. Scholarly, conscientious, thorough, dynamic, inspiring — she is a teacher in the noblest senses of the word. She is the kind of teacher we need if this awry world is to be set aright. Woman's College Summer Session Begins June 6

Woman's College has arranged an extraordinarily flexible calendar for the coming Summer Session, making it possible for students to begin courses on five different opening dates, according to Dr. Dennis H. Cooke, director of the session.

Students will be able to register for periods of two, three, four, six, or eight weeks of study. The first opening date for all departments will be June 6 for the regular six weeks session. Two-week courses for teachers will begin June 6, June 20, July 5, July 18, and three-week courses will open on June 6 and July 27 in science, languages, and home economics.

According to Dr. Cooke the coming Summer Session, in addition to its usual offerings, is strengthening its work for freshmen who wish to enter regular college in the fall with special preparation in the sciences and English, and for graduates of junior colleges and others transferring to senior colleges in the fall. Special junior year work is being set up for the latter group.

Catering to teachers of physical education, music, art, and home economics, the session is arranging for special workshops and clinics, in addition to its varied curriculum of general education courses for other teachers. Graduate work will be offered in business education, education, and economics for business education majors.

Men students and married couples will be provided accommodations in residence halls set apart for them, Dr. Cooke stated.

A number of visiting teachers will join regular members of Women's College faculty in teaching the summer session courses.

Business Education Conference Held

The eighth annual Business Education Conference, with "Better Teaching for Vocational Progress" as its theme, was held at Woman's College April 22 and 23. The conference was sponsored by the business and commercial department of the College and Zeta Chapter of Delta Pi Epsilon, honorary business education fraternity.

A program with leaders outstanding in the field of business education was arranged for teachers, principals, superintendents, businessmen, and others interested in training for business.

The conference was attended by a large number of alumnae of Woman's College as well as others.

Sixth Annual Arts Forum is Held at Woman's College

The Sixth Annual Arts Forum at the Woman's College, March 17-19, was attended by two hundred students from thirty-five colleges and universities.

Original student works in art, music, drama, writing, and the dance were presented and discussed by such experienced and talented critics as: Henry Cowell, composer and concert pianist; Peter Taylor, writer and teacher of writing; Louis Horst, composer of music for the dance and teacher of dance composition; Walter Prichard Eaton, Yale teacher of playwriting; Jean Stafford, novelist and short story writer; Richard Wilbur, poet, and James Johnson Sweeney, Harvard art critic and teacher.

This year's forum attracted more student contributions than ever before. Hundreds of visiting students from scores of colleges joined 2,100 Woman's College students in attending the eleven separate events on the program.

Highlights of the forum were the performance of four one-act plays, a writing forum, a performance of choreography by ten college dance groups, a recital of student compositions, and an exhibition of student oil and watercolors, etchings, sculpture, lithographs, wood cuts and engravings, serigraphs, drawings, and textile designs. There also was an exhibition of work by contemporary sculptors, an exhibition of student work from Woman's College Art Department, an exhibition of photography by Woman's College physics students, and concerts in the dance and contemporary American composers by Woman's College dance and chamber music ensembles.

The student writings criticized by the forum leaders appeared in the forum issue of the Corradi, Woman's College literary quarterly.

No prizes were offered, nor were any awards made at the forum. The only objective was the stimulation of original work by students.

Students exhibiting art in various media represented the following colleges and universities: School of the Art Institute of Chicago, oil painting; School of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, etchings; The Cooper Union Art School, oil paintings; Cranbrook Academy, sculpture; University of Denver School of Arts, watercolors; National Serigraph Society, serigraphs; Pratt Institute, textile designs; Rhode Island School of Design, oil painting and charcoal drawing; Richmond Professional Institute, oil paintings; Teachers College of Columbia University, lithographs; University of Wisconsin, oil paintings.

Nineteen student writers heard their stories and poems read and criticized. The stories were written by students from University of Alabama, Duke University, Indiana University, State University of Iowa, University of Miami, N. C. State College, University of North Carolina. Poems criticized were from Eastern Carolina Teachers College, Kenyon College, N. C. State College, Woman's College of U. N. C.

The Play-Likers of Woman's College staged, directed and performed the experimental one-act plays. The plays were: "Shadows on the Moon," by Constance Cruger of Wellesley College; "Au Fond du Coeur," by James Geiger of the University of North Carolina; "The Spice of Life," by Nan Wilkinson of Woman's College; and "Let No Man Put Asunder," by Sally Nissley and Sue Reed, of Randolph-Macon Woman's College.

Ten college dance groups presented choreographical programs during the forum, representing Appalachian State Teachers College, Converse College, Farmville State Teachers College, Florida State University, Greensboro College, Limestone College, Madison College, Randolph-Macon Woman's College, Westhampton College, College of William and Mary, Woman's College of Duke University, and Woman's College of U. N. C.

Original musical compositions played at a forum recital were by students from Salem College, Louisiana State University, Converse College, and Woman's College of U. N. C.

Dr. Peterson Makes Phi Beta Kappa Address

Dr. Houston Peterson, professor of philosophy at Rutgers University, delivered the annual Phi Beta Kappa address at Woman's College of the University of North Carolina on April 21, in Aycock Auditorium.

The address, entitled "Years of the Modern" from a Walt Whitman phrase, followed the society's initiation banquet. Seventeen students comprise this year's class of initiates (see accompanying photograph).

Dr. Peterson, a Californian, taught at Columbia University after receiving his doctorate there, and since 1927 he has been at Rutgers. He is widely known in the East as an educational leader, and for his work as director of the New York Adult Education Council. He is the author of three books on philosophical subjects and is editor of additional works on poetry and education.

A philosopher, who keeps abreast of current educational and social trends, Dr. Peterson's radio work has included service as moderator on "The Town Meeting on the Air."

Dr. Virginia Farinholt of the faculty is president of the college chapter.

Participants in the Vocational Guidance Conference Chapel Program

First Vocational Guidance Conference is Successful

The first Vocational Guidance Conference, a project of the Sophomore Class assisted by the Alumnae Association, was held at Woman's College, Tuesday, April 5.

The conference opened at noon with Mrs. May Thompson Evans, former Woman's College faculty member and at present field representative of the Division of Field Service of the Federal Security Agency in Washington, D. C., making the address to the students in Aycock Auditorium. Mrs. John Sockwell, Jr., the former Mary Jane Wharton '31, chairman of the Alumnae Undergraduate Committee, presided.

Chancellor W. C. Jackson greeted the students, who had just returned from spring vacation, and announced his decision to remain as Chancellor for another year.

Mrs. Boydston Satterfield, the former Frances Gibson '28, president of the Alumnae Association, brought greetings from the Alumnae.

Mrs. Evans advised the students to prepare for homemaking as well as a career. She explained that 17 million women are employed and nearly half of them are married. She pointed out that many women in middle life follow a career after the children are grown. The development of personal relations she considered most important.

Addition Will be Made to Home Economics Building

Working plans for an addition to the Home Economics Building at Woman's College are in process of preparation by the firm of Northrup and O'Brien, Winston-Salem architects. The building is expected to cost approximately $1,000,000.

To be of brick with marble trim, the building will be a three-story structure facing the new college library to form a large new quadrangle. It will measure 56 by 322 feet. On the ground floor will be a kitchen, dining room, classrooms, and a lecture room seating 240 persons. The second floor and third floor will feature lounges, classrooms and laboratories, research laboratories, a locker room, offices, and project rooms.

Actually an addition to the present home economics building, the new structure will be many times larger. An appropriation of $1,025,000 has been made by the General Assembly for the construction of the building.

Greatly expanded activities in home economics in recent years have made the new structure necessary for the college's program.

Burnsville School of Fine Arts Will Be Open July 4 - August 27

The Burnsville School of Fine Arts, located in the heart of North Carolina's most scenic mountain section, offers training and college credit in Art, Music, Drama, and Education, July 4—August 27.

The Burnsville School of Fine Arts was conceived as a means of assembling students, teachers, and devotees of the arts in a pleasant and suitable region of Western North Carolina for the purpose of developing their aptitudes and tastes and furnishing first-rate entertainment to the people of that area and their many summer tourist visitors. Western North Carolina is rich in the lore and traditions of art and its miraculous beauty is fit inspiration for those who need cultural things for full living.

Dr. Frank Porter Graham, President of the Greater University of North Carolina, who has throughout his long service to his state realized the value of the humanities as well as practical considerations in living as evidenced by his support to such projects as "The Lost Colony" at Manteo, N. C., approved the notion of a similar development in Western North Carolina. In his eager enthusiasm he gave wise and valuable suggestions in the planning of the venture and convinced the Carnegie Foundation that it was worth considerable financial support. Because of his single handed intervention a substantial grant was forthcoming from this foundation.

The citizens of the Burnsville community, lead by their dynamic Superintendent of Education, Mr. Frank Howell, were inspired to provide the practical support and means for inaugurating the school. These means took the form of a splendid playhouse and ample facilities for getting the work off to a good start. The accomplishment would seem unbelievable even in a very prosperous community. The administrative officials of the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina, notably Dr. Walter Clinton Jackson, Mr. Charles Phillips, and Mr. George Joyce, have put the full force and strength of that great institution behind the movement. The Veterans' Administration realizing the need of offering cultural as well as vocational training have given strong and practical support. These combined efforts resulted in a first-rate summer theatre and a school of fine arts that is now offering training and college credits in Art, Music, Drama, and Crafts. Within another year Dance will be added to this growing list.

DRAMA

The Parkway Playhouse of the Burnsville School of Fine Arts, after completing its second season with marked success, is embarking on its third season with emphasis on "more of everything." This summer, courses in all phases of the theatre are being offered. These courses are planned to realize the cultural and artistic values of the theatre and its literature, to contribute to the personal development of the student, and to provide sound professional training for the educational, community, and professional theatres. Courses will be offered in acting, directing, scenery construction, stage lighting, literature of the theatre, teaching dramatics in elementary and secondary schools, and theatre management.

The Parkway Playhouse is a theatre and school where theory and practice meet. All activities are designed to revolve around the students and all class work is directly connected with the activities of the theatre. The students will be trained under a large, well-known, and expertly trained faculty. In addition to classwork, students are expected to act and assume other assigned duties in each phase of the theatre under the guidance of the faculty. This enables each student to receive a well-rounded knowledge and appreciation of all phases of the theatre.

Housing: Students, faculty, and guest stars are housed in individual rooms in a completely remodeled dormitory only 50 yards from the Playhouse. The dormitory operates under a Counselor who is one of the regular faculty members of the Burnsville School of Fine Arts.

Dining Hall: Dining facilities are also operated under the direction of the Counselor and well balanced meals are offered.

Mountain view from the Playhouse

Admission: Men and women of all ages who are interested in the theatre and wish to improve their background will be considered for enrollment. To insure teaching efficiency and to allow the faculty sufficient time to give the student individual attention, the enrollment is limited to 50 students. The school is approved under the G. I. Bill of Rights and college credits up to eight semester hours are granted.

Fees: Fees are figured at $35 per week; $100 for three weeks; or $250 for the entire eight-weeks session. This fee includes room, board, tuition, registration, and all laboratory fees. The applicant must send a $25 deposit along with the application. This sum will be deducted from the total payment due on July 1 or 2, the days of registration. If the applicant is not accepted, the $25 will be refunded.

MUSIC

Courses in Music at the Burnsville School of Fine Arts are planned for teachers, advanced students, and the layman interested in acquiring a fundamental understanding of music. To this end a program of individual and group instruction has been arranged. Courses in Music will include both private voice lessons and chorus work conducted by Professor William C. DeVeny, head of the Voice Department at Woman's College. Individual instruction and band work will be under the direction of Professor Duane P. Kline, also of Woman's College. The high light in the music program will be the consolidation of both the Voice and Instrumental groups with the Drama group in the joint presentation of the operetta "Tulip Time" near the close of the season. In addition to classes at Burnsville, both professors will also offer the same instruction at Spruce Pine. Professor De Veny's classes will be offered from July 18 through August 26 while Professor Kline's will be offered from July 4 through August 12.

ART

Another step toward the final realization of the Burnsville School of Fine Arts is being taken this year by the addition of instruction in the field of Art. Several courses are being offered including courses in basic fundamental of design, study of color theories, and other courses in painting at all levels. These courses will be under the expert guidance of Mrs. Callie Braswell and college credits will be granted for work completed on the undergraduate level.

EDUCATION

As in the past, the Burnsville School of Fine Arts will offer a large and varied list of extension courses in education starting July 4. In the past these courses were designed primarily for teachers in Western North Carolina who could not attend summer school otherwise. This year, however, they are being broadened to cover the needs of teachers from any section who might choose to take any such additional work in the cool, pleasant facilities offered by the Burnsville School of Fine Arts located in the center of the mountain resort area. These courses will cover three two-week periods and college credit of two hours will be allowed for each two weeks course. Courses will be offered in Reading, Guidance, Language, Arts, Biography for Teachers, Geography, and Cultural Comparisons. The work is under the general supervision of Mr. Charles W. Phillips, Woman's College Extension Division, to whom all inquiries should be made.

Dr. Jackson Will Teach at Burnsville July 4-18

A special added attraction at the Burnsville School of Fine Arts this summer will be Chancellor Jackson's course, "Biography for Teachers", which, we understand, used to be called "Representative Americans". The course will carry two hours of graduate credit. The time, 8:30 to 12:30 daily, Place, High School Building, Burnsville, N. C.

Alumnae are invited either to take the course for credit or to audit for any length of time you wish. Regular attendance and preparation are not necessary for those auditing the course.

Woman's College to Offer Degree in Creative Arts

A Graduate Creative Arts Program centered in Greensboro at the Woman's College Division of the Consolidated University of North Carolina will be offered for the first time in the academic year 1949-1950. This program leads to the degree of Master of Fine Arts.

The program is designed to meet the need in North Carolina and in the region for work of graduate grade with a clear emphasis upon composition in the fields of painting and the graphic arts, music, writing, and the dance. Completion of the degree program will presuppose the attainment of a professional level of competence in composition in the art form in which the student elects to major.

The degree program consists of work in one of the four major subjects and in a related minor. Available at the Woman's College are an interdepartmental minor in the creative arts and minors in art history, painting and the graphic arts, literature, writing, music literature and history, and the dance. Related minors are also available at the University at Chapel Hill and at State College in Raleigh.

The establishment of this graduate program at Greensboro reflects the conviction that distinctive advantages for the pursuit of graduate work in the creative arts are present here. The Woman's College is a residential liberal arts college which has for a number of years given emphasis to work in the several arts and which possesses facilities adequate to support graduate study. The opportunity is present for individualized instruction from the strong staff of resident artist-teachers. For 1949-1950, this staff includes Gregory D. Ivy, painter, Randall Jarrell, poet, Virginia Moomaw, choreographer, Lettie Hamlett Rogers, novelist and story writer, Helen A. Thrush, graphic artist, and Elliot Weisgarber, composer.

The program should be of value to those who would teach in secondary schools and colleges as well as to those preparing for professional careers in one of the arts. Adequate supporting courses in the literature of each of the arts are offered together with courses which meet the State requirements for graduate certification.

Representatives from the college should be present then.

The meeting was then turned over to the program chairman, Miss Webb. She introduced Miss Mary Creety '48, who discussed the Arts Forum which takes place on the campus each year. Miss Creety also read parts of the petition for a graduate school in the Creative Arts. In view of the fact that several new members were present, Mrs. Montague asked everyone to introduce herself by giving her name, maiden name, class, and occupation. It was found that we had a very interesting cross section and several wanted to find out more about what others were doing.

on Clarendon Street in Boston. The room allotted to us is a pleasant one, ideal for a friendly get-together. Shortly after two o'clock Mrs. Levin (Myra Siff '46), our president, opened the meeting by welcoming the twenty members who had come, some of them from distant points in the state, two from New Hampshire, and one from Vermont.

Routine reports were made and then Mrs. Levin read letters of regret from some of the alumnae who were unable to meet with us on that day. Some of the coming attractions for our chapter are: a bridge party to be held at Geraldine McKinney's '48, early in April, a Boston "Pops" Symphony night sometime in May, and a picnic early in June. If our plans materialize, we should be a very busy chapter this first year. At the next regular meeting in late April we hope to have as our speaker someone from the college.

Mrs. Levin asked the following members to serve as committee chairmen: Ruth (Schohn) Pilling '44, membership; Polly Claiborne '47, program; Anita (Fife) Jennings '44, nominating.

Our guest speaker for the afternoon, Dr. Herbert Park, was introduced by Polly Claiborne. Each alumna had been asked to bring pictures of her college days, albums, year books, etc., and the group enjoyed sharing these and comparing notes. While tea was being served, Mr. Joseph Wood, Jr., Marguerite (Smith) Wood's husband, took pictures of the group. It was 5 o'clock when we finally adjourned.

Frances (Allen) Rostofer, 395 Carpenter St., Columbus 5, Ohio, writes: "I have been trying for the past year to organize an alumnae chapter in Ohio. I would like for all the girls who read the Alumnae News to write to me if they are interested (in Ohio, of course). There are now three alumnae in Columbus. Ann (Munford) Traylor '43, Helen (Sharp) Leach '43, and myself. If anyone in any state knows of a graduate in Ohio, please send me her address and I'll go to work. Sometime during the next month I'm going up to Cleveland to see if I can find some of our girls and I'm surely looking forward to the trip."

Orange County

The Orange County Chapter of the Woman's College Alumnae Association met on Monday night, March 7, at 6:30 p.m. for a dinner meeting in the Carolina Inn, Chapel Hill. Miss Katherine Taylor, Miss Vera Largent, Mrs. Anne Carter and Miss Elvira Prondeckie were guests from the College, very welcome guests. Forty-four were present, including eight visitors from the Durham County Chapter, Jean Dickey '44, chairman, Linda Lyon '44, Isabel Pelton '39, Jo Whitley '44, Billie Rivers '46, Grace Haynes Page '44, Grace Brewer '44, and Susan Darden '46. Mrs. Claude Teague was also a special guest of the Orange County Chapter.

Miss Largent, class chairman in 1944 and member of the history department, told the alumnae about The Harriet Elliott Social Science Forum. The Forum has been one of Miss Largent's favorite topics since it began; since her talk the Forum is one of the favorite subjects of the alumnae present. Miss Largent recreated the intellectual excitement present on the Woman's College campus about the topic of this year's Forum: Freedom and Security. What are the bounds of Freedom and Security? What limitations does Security place on Freedom? How much Security must we forego for the sake of Freedom? Since Miss Largent's tribute to the fine speech of Mrs. Vera Micheles Dean, those who missed the meetings especially regret not hearing her consideration of these problems. Nor is the topic for the fall session of the Harriet Elliott Social Science Forum any less stimulating; the discrepancy between what we as a group know and what we as a group do. If Miss Largent gives many such talks, the W. C. campus will not be large enough to hold all of us interested in the Forum.

Miss Katherine Taylor's address was much better than anything so formal as an "address"; she brought the alumnae back to Woman's College through an informal talk which was in truth a visit with the Dean of women, the faculty and the students. Miss Taylor briefly reviewed the residence hall system which Miss Elliott created and nurtured, and she told about the immediate plans for improvements, the emphasis now being on inter-dormitory citizenship. After noting some changes in the faculty, Miss Taylor brought the alumnae up to date on the building program, from the laundry to the new library. In particular she discussed the status of the Student Government, which is now re-examining the honor policy and its own position on campus. Miss Taylor made the alumnae feel the spirit of the political campaigns on campus and the enthusiasm for the newly-formed Greater University Council. She announced the plans for this year's Arts Forum, which has the honor of being imitated by other colleges in the country and which is a vital force on the W. C. campus and in the state.

After a forum, at which time Miss Taylor, Miss Largent, Mrs. Carter and Miss Prondeckie answered question of the alumnae about the college, social bedlam, and we all enjoyed it.

Sarah Virginia Dunlap '39, secretary-treasurer, was chiefly responsible for the arrangements of the meeting, along with Lorraine (Glenn) Simms '46, vice-chairman. The menu was surprisingly good: stuffed grapefruit, chicken breast, asparagus, mashed potatoes, tomato aspic, coffee, rolls and ice cream.

Those present from Orange County were: Grace (Mlewborn) Aycock '39, Marjorie Chapman '29, Jean Freeman '33, Katherine Freeman '29, Alne Garrison '39, Pat Gravatt '45, Rosalyn Gardner '30, Rebecca Harris, Gretchen (Taylor) Hobbs '13, Mrs. J. H. Holland, Jane (Linville) Joyner '46, Mary Frances Kellam '44, Mary Agnes (Garrett) Kyker, Nancy Lloyd '46, Ann (Hardison) McGoogan '43, Rose (Crump) Morrow '46, Susan (Barbee) Murray Com. '38, Evelyn (Butler) Phillips '45, Sara Webb, Norma (Perry) Poe '46, Rose Pully '40, Helen (Reynolds) Reid '40, Virginia (Harris) Rothman, Nell (Craig) Strowd '23, Julia (Cherry) Spruill '20, Celia (Rothgeb) Webb, '46, Patty (Spurgeon) Warren '13, Dorothy (Glenn) Warren, Sarah Virginia Dunlap '39, secretary - treasurer, Lorraine (Glenn) Simms '46, vice-chairman, and Toni (Lupton) Hires '44, chairman.

She presented these hopes as to buildings, faculty and students. The program ended with the singing of the college song with Mrs. W. W. Parker, a special guest, at the piano.

Miss Thompson invited the guests into the west wing of the club which was decorated in red, white, and blue, carrying out the George Washington motif. The table was covered with a red and white silk cloth, centered by a cherry tree placed in a large red, white, and blue hat.

The Music Education Club held its second annual Alumnae Weekend on Saturday, March 12, to which seven graduates returned to tell of their early experiences in the teaching world. About 35 girls attended the supper which was held in the Religious Activities room in South Spencer Hall.

After supper, the girls went to the Alumnae House where they spent the evening listening to the Alumnae and asking them questions. Those who came back to the campus were, Louise Highsmith '46 of Winston-Salem, Peggy McIver '47 of Wilmington, Ruth Tilson Peterson '48 of Louisburg, Alberta Swain '48 of Roanoke Rapids, Elvira Massengil '48 of Dunn, Ruth Watkins '47 of Norwood, and Joyce (West) Witherington '48 of Greensboro. Another graduate, Nona Pate '48 of Aberdeen, was in town during the day and left a message of her work for the club.

The Young Composers Club joined with the girls in the meeting. It was a most enthusiastic meeting and plans are already being talked of for a similar gathering next spring. Miss Birdie Holloway, of the Music faculty, is adviser to the club.

Miss Martus Presents Demonstration

A highlight of the program of the American Association for Health, Physical Education, and Recreation Convention in Asheville, February 23-25 was an all-convention demonstration in the Asheville auditorium arranged by Miss Ethel Martus, head of the Woman's College Physical Education Department, and vice president of the Southern district.

The demonstration program included a square dance by children from the Asheville elementary schools, folk dances by women students from Middle Tennessee State College, tumbling by boys from Hall Fletcher Junior High School of Asheville, badminton and square dances by women from Western Carolina Teachers College, folk dances by students of Winthrop College, modern dances by students from Woman's College of U. Annual Music Contest

The North Carolina Music Contest-Festival, which has given opportunity and encouragement to nearly a hundred thousand of the state's high school singers and musicians during the past 31 years, staged its 1949 event at Woman's College, April 19-23.

North Carolina's extraordinary record for producing a large number of nationally known singers, choir directors, soloists, band leaders, instrumentalists, and music teachers is attributed to the annual contest-festival and the months of preparations made for it in the state's schools.

Ferguson Home at Taylorsville is Unique

Sue Ramsey (Johnston) Ferguson and her husband live at Liledoon, their estate near Taylorsville. The Case Institute of Technology's Alumni Magazine (Mr. Ferguson is a Case graduate) carried a most interesting description in the January 1949 number. We quote in part:

Located three and a half miles from Taylorsville, Liledoon (the authentic Scots pronunciation is Lillydoon) is an original and ancient Scottish settlement. When the Fergusons purchased the rolling acres composing the plantation, they viewed the plain, simply-designed farm house topping a gentle knoll and found it good. Then they set to work to carry out within some ideas of their own. Today the house is a completely charming example of simple elegance and spaciousness—a home lending itself graciously and beautifully to comfortable living and warm hospitality.

Carefully worked out by metropolitan decorators and artists, the uncovered windows in the reception rooms are of plate glass, framed on the inside with decorated panels, and bring the magnificent view spread out on every side right into the house.

In the living room, splendidly conceived and executed murals depict members of the household, its staff, and plantation activities. The third floor of the home has been opened up and converted into marvelous quarters for the Ferguson small fry and their governess, and an electric elevator makes commerce between the three floors an entirely simple matter.

Mrs. Ferguson, the former Sue Ramsey Johnston of Gastonia, has had, and is still enjoying, a varied and colorful career. She has taught school, been a domestic science teacher, served a large Philadelphia hospital as dietitian, conducted cooking schools, and is recognized as one of this state's ranking hostesses. At Liledoon, she thinks nothing of entertaining 200 or more people from all parts of the state at the annual October clambake, which is now one of the state's social institutions. For this event, clams are flown straight to Liledoon from their native habitat, and the clambake is prepared and served in the best New England manner. She was the second woman in North Carolina to be appointed to the State Board of Education; she served her district with distinction as State Senator, and she is presently a member of the important State Education Commission.

Social events of a brilliant nature are held regularly at Liledoon. There the great in education, politics, and industry are wont to congregate, and there history has many times been made, and will be made again.

In North Carolina, the Fergusons of Liledoon are unique and, a visit to their family seat is an enviable and never-to-be-forgotten privilege and pleasure.

Mrs. Ferguson is president of the Woman's College Home Economics Foundation and a member of the University Board of Trustees.

Students Read More Serious Literature

Woman's College students are increasingly reading more serious literature, according to the annual report of Charles M. Adams, librarian. During the past year there was a distinct decline in the reading of fiction. The borrowing of non-fiction books led fiction by a margin of about seven to one.

During the past year, according to the librarian, the college added 6,000 volumes to its collection to boost its total to more than 223,000 books. More than 91,000 volumes were circulated during the year.

Even breaking my leg in 1948 couldn't keep me out of the schoolroom but a few weeks. It is truly good to have this employment because I am in a sense alone, as all my children are in their own homes. My younger son, with his wife and four children, lives at the homeplace which is still home for me; the older one (who has two children) lives in New York City. My daughter Susan, known to some alumnae, lives in Merced, Calif., and my youngest is in Harpers Ferry, W. Va. I have a wonderful time going by air to visit them. My friends at Commencement can prepare to be bored with grandmother's talk of those six little ones and of those visits which fill most of vacation time."

Miss Townsend is at Scarritt College for several months of her year's leave of absence from China where she is superintendent of the hospital in Kiukiang. Prior to World War II, this hospital served mainly women and children, but due to shortage of hospital space, it has been necessary for them to admit men also. Plans for the future include expansion of the nurse's training program and heading up a public health program for that section of China. Miss Townsend was most interested in the expansion and changes at Woman's College and also enjoyed finding out about members of the faculty she had known when she was here. My husband was elected to the new nine man City Council of Richmond last June, studied law all summer, and is also manager of special grants for Miller and Rhodes Department Store. Most of his activities make local news — and good conversation! Pat Jr. is now 14 years old, a freshman in High School, and is quite a good student and plays the cello. John, Jr. is 5 years old, front teeth missing, and he gets a big bang out of living, as well as contributing the bang.

"I have just returned from a grand experience of taking a party of sixteen students from St. Catherine's School to Bermuda for their spring holidays. We flew over from Washington, D. C., and returned on the Queen of Bermuda to New York, a veritable dream boat. No one got lost, no one lost anything, and no one got seasick! President Truman flew in from his southern vacation just before we boarded our plane in Washington and the Governor of Bermuda was retiring and returning to England to live — so came aboard our ship with much pomp and ceremony and sailed with us to New York. Churchill and Shostakovitch were both in New York when we arrived at our little hotel, The New Weston (but just around the corner from the Waldorf where parades and pickets were in full swing!) The Islands of Bermuda were even lovelier than we expected — and we recommend that you all join our St. Catherine's tour next year!

"Five of my chemistry students entered the National Westinghouse Science Talent Search Contest and are now competing in the Virginia Contest. My general science class is to view Saturn this Friday night through Richmond's largest telescope, and my four sections of economic geography are rounding the world with hopes of arriving back in Richmond by June. It has been fast travel, but the teacher has learned an awful lot."

But for me and for all the other wives, this is a two-and-a-half-year vacation. The base, like the island, is small and pretty with an abundance of tropical shrubs and trees to give it color. In addition to the usual commissary, p.e.x., laundry, electric and water supply, cold storage, and so on, we have a swimming pool, golf course, tennis courts, bowling alley, gym, and outdoor theater to keep us happy. Since Jamaica attracts so many tourists, surely someone from W. C. will be visiting the island in the next two years. If any of you come down, please plan to visit us at Vernam. The resort areas are lovely, but I think you'd enjoy seeing this bit of America in the middle of it all. We wouldn't for anything miss driving over the island to see the natives in their own picturesque environment of thatched roofs, banana and coconut trees, donkeys, and goats; and a weekend in one of the English-type hotels is very pleasant. Nevertheless, it always feels good to drive back through the gate. This is home. I send my very best wishes to all of you."

DO THIS

If Baby Has a Cold

Best-known home remedy you can use to relieve distress of baby's cold is to rub his little throat, chest and back with Vicks VapoRub at bedtime. Results are so good because VapoRub:

Penetrates to cold-irritated upper bronchial tubes with special soothing medicinal vapors.

Stimulates chest and back surfaces like a nice warming poultice.

While baby sleeps VapoRub's penetrating-stimulating action keeps working for hours to bring relief. Often by morning most distress of the cold is gone. Try Vicks VapoRub tonight!

Margaret (Brandenburg) Stephens, who is in Germany with her husband, writes such interesting comments that we pass them on in part: "We came to Germany around the first of March after a very rough transatlantic crossing. My husband works in Southofen, and we live in Oberstdorf. Both towns are in the heart of the Bavarian Alps. We are located close to the Swiss border and it is only a two-hour drive to Zurich. In the short time that I've been here I've managed to see much of the country. I've been in Munich and Augsburg, but neither place was appealing. which was a very wonderful sight to see. River barges from all nations—Belgium, Luxembourg, Holland, Switzerland—use the waterway. Vineyards rise to the mountain tops bordering the Rhine. The villages along the river are quaint and picturesque. The Rhine abounds with castles. We saw Rheinfels, near St. Goar; the Burg Katz and the Burg Maus. The latter two castles are The Cat and The Mouse.

"Bavaria is the prettiest section of Germany, I think. The houses and other buildings are of the Swiss Chalet type, with picturesque balconies and porches. Oberstdorf, where we live, is a popular German ski resort town. There are always championship ski jumps and races here during the winter. Last month they held a ski festival in the town and the whole town was decorated. Everyone took off from work to see the fun. As soon as it snows here, everyone gets out their skis and heads for the slopes." Address: c/o Sgt. William Stephens, 540th General Dispensary, A.P.O. 178-A c/o P. M. New York.

DEVOE PAINTS

Featuring the
2-COAT SYSTEM

This Devoe 2-Coat System doesn't try to saddle or shirk. There are two definite jobs for outside paint to do, and Devoe does them. Each coat does its specific work. The first coat locks the pores of the wood like iron, seals it against sucking up life-giving oils. The second coat is built to laugh off ultra-violet sun rays and weather, still sparkles after several years.
